Florentine Still Life

Giovanna Garzoni 1600 - 1670

Giovanna Garzoni took conventional still life painting and made the genre into something special of her own. She went to Naples in 1630, to work for the Duque de Alcalá, and was still there a year later, when in a letter to dal Pozzo she expressed her desire to 'live and die in Rome'. However, she spent the next five years in Turin at the court of Charles Emanuel II, Duke of Savoy. She left Turin in 1637, probably for Florence; documents indicate that she was there from 1643.
